

SEPTEMBER 2007 NEWSLETTER

Dear Parents,

Wow here we are in September already and where did August go. I apologize for not having our end of summer party that has become an annual event. Going to Alaska the same month seems to have thrown a wrench into my planning skills. We will be making up for that party with our 5th annual Fall Festival in October.

We have two of our little people having birthdays this month; Kyrsten will be turning 2 years old on the 13th and Ashlynn will be turning 1 year old on the 25th. Time is just flying by. Our other little person Logan, is now gone most of the day in the 1st grade, we miss him. Miles is fitting in well, Jay is now coming 2 days a week, Cameron is doing well, Aden is doing wonderful and we will start on his kindergarten skills pretty soon. Landon is trying really hard to get the potty training down pat, and Drue has dropped down to part-time. The childcare is constantly changing, growing, and just way too much fun! Marla, Dennis, and I are also doing well. Marla will be celebrating 5 years with us on September 5th, if you remember please congratulate her on 5 years with us, her birthday is September 21st. We would not be what we are today without her.

I wanted to remind all of you about our referral program, if you refer someone and they chose to start here, after one month of care you will receive 1 weeks free childcare equal one of your children's weekly rate. Right now Linda's Little Laboratory has 2 openings for 1 child at least 18 months old and 1 more child over the age of 2 years old.

Just a quick little reminder that Christmas is just around the corner, start your savings now so you will be ready to shop after Thanksgiving.

Thank you for allowing us (Marla and I) to watch your children. It means so much to us to have such wonderful families.

Linda
